
Subject: Re: Did Renegade sideline your other games?
Posted by R315r4z0r on Thu, 31 Dec 2009 06:21:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've logged more hours into Ren than any other game and committed a vast majority of my spare time into creating things for Ren, but it hasn't stopped me from playing other games.

Renegade is like the go-between between games. It's a fallback, a default that I go to when there is nothing else.

But being a basic 'fallback' is an accomplishment in itself. It's a game so simple yet so immerse that it creates a level where it can be held as an absolute perfection. Instead of sitting around doing nothing when you're bored, you sit around playing Renegade.

Basically it's so exceptional it can be considered to be on the same level as walking and breathing.
