The point is that he claims he made a new shotgun, when he didn't even say "It's from Halo", which insinuates that it's an original shotgun by him. Obviously, it's not original, as it's from every single Halo game in the series.

It's like RenX40k saying "We made a brand new, original universe with characters like Space Marines and guns like Bolters!" It disrespects the creators.

So basically crysis992 is disrespecting Bungie for their hard work in creating their own shotgun from scratch by trying to pawn it off as his own work, whether intentional or not. And I fucking love Bungie for the Halo series.

I have spent so many nights staying up all night playing through every level of the games on Co-op Legendary with my best mate to know what that shotgun looks like by heart, thus why I knew right away.

EDIT: Spelling
