

---

Subject: Re: Secondary Monitor and Vid Card Question

Posted by slosa on Sun, 31 Jan 2010 20:41:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Caveman wrote on Sun, 31 January 2010 14:34 The monitor you're looking at seems to be ok. Personally I would find one with a DVI port for better colours but that's just me being picky. It's much better than the one you're currently using. You shouldn't have any problems with saturation or the lack of it. If you do you can always increase it in the settings.

Alright, well I found this one. It's cheap, and has a DVI port for future use. The specs seem to be better than this Dell monitor too. Should I just buy this one instead of the Acer?

---