Great, you worked out that a guy on the Xbox live system was black from the sound of his voice. Under what circumstances did it arise that you felt it necessary to let him know that you thought he was a black man? Why did you have to let him know that's what you thought?

Simple, why do i want to? i don't, i was simply raising a point.

He stated that he was black after a game, so i said i know. when he asked how i knew i said i could tell by the sound of his voice... then some random (voice deep enough to be over 6, i did not say an IQ over 6) dumb ass called me racist (It wasn't in a joking format/voice so it started an argument ending in him actually calling me a "Racist Fagot incapable of having a life")
