I live in Eastern Canada, but my father lives out West in BC and he was one of the first 10,000 evacuated from Kelowna when that monster fire erupted off the hillsides. I think he might of lost his house like many others. I feel helpless just sitting here in the East and watching his whole community burn down to the ground. I know that the western states are also having a bad fire year. Does anyone on this forum know anyone affected by forest fires this year?
