McD's used to have a double cheese burger, medium fries, and a 42oz drink on their $1 menu...

Now they have a "McDouble" burger which has 2 patties and only 1 slice of cheese... what kinda fucking retardation is that, whoever came up with that idea should have been fired, but I bet they got a raise for saving those cheap fucks more money.

Over here the McDouble was introduced long after the double cheeseburger's price was bumped up. I get it instead of the double cheeseburger, it saves me 30 cents and the calories, and tastes the same.

And man, it seems like a lot of Americans here say Burger King is a lot better than McDonalds. I wonder how it's like down there, cause its not even a comparison up here, at least not anymore.
