So what tbh? I have been accused for stealth reveal quite often. Even got banned for it from the Jelly servers, whereas it was stated that I used cheat name removed to spot stealth units. Luckily I had the game frapped from my point of view, and it was obvious to see that I wasn't using cheats.

The thing is, ppl will always whine for something if they get killed by something BS. I would only take cheat accusations serious when mods of the specific server contact you, and at least let it be a decent server (not just some random, almost empty server, whereas the head of the server bans you when you kill him too much), and the accuser being a regular of the server and knows what he is saying.
