Vice City for sure.

Only problem is water = instant death.

I nearly shat myself when I first hit the drink in SA, only to actually shit myself when I realized my character could swim.

Anyhow, I forgave VC for making you die when you hit the water, figuring that Miami's waters were a) shark infested, b) horribly polluted, and c) your character was too coked out to swim anyways.

I remember buying that business with the boat race missions and dying several times after completing said missions.

I only went on massacres in GTA1 and played the GTA3 trilogy...Vice City was clearly the best out of those 3.
