Just because some countries thinks something should be illegal does not mean the internet should follow those laws, especially if the people that live in that countries does not think those laws should be followed. Anyways, anyone whom has taken even a little German knows they over react a tad on this subject, (with first acting as if WWII never happened then obviously over reacting).

There are so many people in the world that everything one says will probably offend someone in some way; just have to hope that person isn't someone with mod powers I guess
