If 0x90 didn't create the cheat, I'm almost positive somebody else would have made one eventually. If a game has multiplayer, there are bound to be hacks made at some point in time. I'm not supporting cheats or anything, but to stress over it, unless you can do something to change it is rather pointless, in my opinion.

And by what Blazer meant by 'talking to 0x90 and finding vulnerabilities in RG' is that to him, 0x90 seemed to want to help create a better anti-cheat solution, and someone also suggested that 0x90 just wanted a challenge due to the fact that he rarely, if at all, played Renegade.
