Well I was gonna take my car to a local shop... but the estimate they gave me was a tad bit ridiculous. So now it looks like I will be doing more of this work myself, then I will have my girlfriend's dad paint it. He used to paint cars and I have seen his work to know it is good, also might not even have to pay. Just sucks because I need to find some more parts for the body now...

One thing after another with this car, should have got a Mustang. Don't even start with the Ford flaming to all the Chevy humpers that might be reading.
