To be fair, he could. I've seen a bit of his code, and from what I can gather, he codes for a living. It's infact this monoty of tidy code that I think he likes to escape by writing hacks and messy code. I also believe he see's what he does as not too much of a big deal, as after-all, it's "lol, internet", and because it's fun to do the naughty things in life.

I don't get it either...
