Noone informed me this was being moved to the subforum I hardly read, hence I missed it and had to read up over 3 pages of quote pyramids now.

Here's my opinion as a Renforums moderator: there has been precedents in the past where known cheaters and even cheat creators were tolerated here as long as they follow the forum rules. So I feel it's not up to me to go against it now, I'll leave it up to the admins.

My personal opinion is that I share Reborn's analysis and am inclined to share Spooky's point of view. This is just opinion, so it doesn't matter to EWD but I think a strong signal towards x90 that he's unwanted in the Renegade community wouldn't be misplaced even though it will not make a difference.

I also want to remind everyone that talking and getting to an agreement with x90 has been done in the past to finally no result. Yes: he promised not to hook any anti cheat anymore, but one week later (or smth like that) he transformed Renguard h*** into Renegade h*** which technically doesn't attack Renguard anymore but still bypasses it. There's no reason why he'd be more cooperative this time. Discussing with him is useless (once again, my opinion).
