True, but that doesn't count for a lot of people apparently.

it seems more of the case that the fact he's done such an unbelievable amount of damage to this game doesn't matter to you, nor does the fact he's openly stated his intention to carry on doing these things.

another thing that doesn't seem to count for you seems to be the track record of honesty and diligence from those of us who used to run communities that your new "trustworthy ally" has done his best to kill.

btw raven, see reborn's earlier analysis of 0x90's attitude. and as for what 0x90 finds "satisfying", it wouldn't surprise me at all if the most satisfying thing for him right now would be watching people like EWD utterly humiliate themselves by defending him at all costs, even if the price is by attacking their allies.

I have never seen you as my ally.

Also you ignored what I said. Just quoting the pieces you can flame on.

Oh and I do care about the damage he has done, but I also know that he can do much more damage. Easily.

For that reason, I don't want to disassociate him now. Until we have fixed these huge gaping holes in Renegade security we can only be thankful that he has done so little regarding cheats and hacks. AKA, you don't know what you're talking about regarding renegade cheats.
