i'd just really like if you would stop flaming and hating.

do you think that would be possible?

i've already explained that several times, and made it so simple even a gormless turd like you oughtn't to have too much trouble with it.

you have done an extraordinary amount of damage to this game. a great many people quite rightly think you're a sorry little bitch because of it, and some of us (nowhere near enough, in my view) don't mind saying this to you. maybe you won't get the ban you deserve a hundred times over, maybe this forum won't take an official stand against you, maybe some people will even go to great lengths to defend you, but that's another question.

as to what would make people like me stop thinking and saying what a wretched little cunt you are, you could start with a public and sincere apology for all the damage you've done to this game and this community, and then you can ask permission from us to let you help us fix it.

until then, you deserve much more "flaming and hating" than you're getting.

@0x90 plz feel free to join TmX any time, banning you last year made my month.

If you decide to give a formal apology and then help with the TT software (answering questions and what not) then that's a step in the right direction. It doesn't repair all the damage you've done to our community over the years tho. Banning you would be an even greater step in the right direction, I'd love RF to have a policy to ban cheaters...I know its crazy right?
