Your problem is precisely why many if not all conservatives don't want state sponsored healthcare. If you want health insurance you should have to work to pay for it. I don't want other people giving me a free ride if it is going to take forever to get a problem fixed.

But your system is inefficient, and wastes money. Canada's 'single-payer' health system is about 10% of total GDP, whereas America's non-public is 15%. So your country is already paying substantially more for much less.
