So a week or so ago, Spooky hs me with a stank on Islands in front of Bar. I was totally surprised and didn't even know stanks could do that. I always believed that the farther away a infantry is away from the stank, the greater the chances of the stank getting a hs kill. This is why I tried to go closer to his stank on that game to someone try to take away his "supposed" range advantage I thought he had. I was so damn wrong.

So I tried to imitate what he did in a few games and was surprised to get "easy" headshots against infantry. It funny too because 3 players I did it to accused me of either bighead or aimbot!

I am surprised when I killed a sbh on Mesa with a stolen stank when he was just a few feet away. I noticed that the missiles are homing too. I didn't know stank missiles tracked infantry.

somebody fill me in on this whole stank deal please!
