i'm guilty of that

lol, I love the commercials here trying to hype the world cup, you see people from other countries wearing face paint and cheering in soccer fields then they cut to the usa fans in full HD "obviously shot like last week for this commercial" cheering. You see all the European and south American footage that spans decades you can almost taste the love of the game.

I can name more British soccer teams than American teams, you will occasionally catch a Man united game on like espn34 but never any mls games.
