Oh, so we should start a witchhunt against all forum members who choose to post annoying content? Right, wait there while I warm up the ban-chaingun.... *

Perhaps having seen the majority of content posted here he has assumed that is what people are interested in and is trying to fit in with the community? Because, to be honest, what your criticising him so harshly for is exactly what almost every single active member of this forum does on a daily basis, which is post annoying crap that nobody wants to read, whether it be in the form of topics or mindless trolling replies to other topics or posts.

Take a look at yourselves and ask how you are any better than he is. No wonder this community is going downhill if this is how you treat a newcomer who is still finding their feet in a long established forum community.

* Disclaimer: I do not have the rights to, and nor would I if I did, start banning people for posting annoying content. I was simply making a point.
