
Subject: Re: inc flaming

Posted by Muad Dib15 on Mon, 12 Jul 2010 00:34:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dover wrote on Fri, 09 July 2010 21:59Muad Dib15 wrote on Thu, 08 July 2010 08:56nikki6ixx wrote on Wed, 30 June 2010 02:10GEORGE ZIMMER wrote on Tue, 29 June 2010 23:59hurrdurrr guns iz bad
derp de derr

this is fine faggots, don't bitch

It is bad when undesirable people have easy access to some very dangerous, concealable weaponry. It then escalates to something worse when good, decent people need to buy those same weapons in order to feel safe.

It also means it's easier for crooks and criminals to send up arms and ammo to my country where firearms are heavily regulated. Because of that, more gang wars and power in the hands of outlaws in cities like mine and Toronto will make for more drugs heading down to your border in order to buy... firearms!!

Yes, but they already are getting them fairly easily. The problem that criminals only understand force, and this is basically the only way to deal with the crims. MAD may be old, but it works when relating to people that are blatantly ignoring the law. Gun crimes have gone down in DC since the ruling, and states with less gun control laws for the most part*, have lower gun crimes because people can defend themselves and it makes crims more leery of attacking someone if they don't know if the person has a gun or not. It's a crude method, but the only way to assure that gun crimes don't get out of hand because the crims are the only ones running around with guns because the rest of us have handed them in.

*disclaimer

It's sad that people actually believe this bullshit.

Just completely ignore what I said. That's cool, just keep drinking the Koolaid and don't go crying to your government when your city falls into major gun crime because nothing has been done to help people protect themselves from illegal guns because all the legal ones have been regulated away.
