Yes, I do use other colors. In fact, I just changed from blue. I had been using blue for many months before I switched to Crimson like last week. I think it's easier to read than blue. Default is boring... and it doesn't match my avatar.

Also, me whining about them whining doesn't change the fact that they are whining.

Also also, I didn't mean it as an insult to anyone specific, such as the thread starter. I was just trying to point something out. It wasn't my intention to say that the people from exodus are whiners; I was saying that most of the time when an exodus community member decides to post here, it has some sort of drama attached to it.
