if you have efficient team it wouldn't take 2 years, but yeah you probably would be better off making a mod on source engine or another massive engine that's available for use. Also i would attempt to get more knowledge before starting a massive project because if you want to be a efficient leader you must know more to encourage the team and know what you want to achieve and how the correct way is.