x50c3nt, well since you did not answer my second question, it seems like the only reason you are here is to annoy everyone.

Is that your only purpose here? If so, I say that's a very stupid and low purpose. I mean come on seriously. You said it yourself that the game died 2 months ago. You said the community is full with a bunch of n00bs. So why stay here?

Seriously, if I came to a community and became an outcast to the whole community and I did not like the game and thought it was dead 2 months ago I would leave the community and never turn back. Why should I stay here. So I can go and call a bunch of people childish names that I know nothing about cause I think it's "fun". To me, that's very childish and very stupid.

Your only purpose here is to call people names cause they will not as you say "accepted your challenge". If they will not accept your challenge you should leave it as it is, go back to the CW forum and talk how much we are "n00bs" there.

And you say you're just trying to prove a point???? What point is this???? Cause I still haven't seen it. All I am seeing is you getting a ban for being an obnoxious asshole. Seriously, you come on here, call people a whole bunch of childish names and make assumptions about people you know nothing about. And the only point you are proving is that people from the CW forum are obnoxious assholes who like to start flames. Almost every person that came from the CW forum just came here to flame people and put them down. Only people I know that came from the CW forum that did not do that is PhilCollins and IceSword7 (Well he's getting better at posting but sometimes he flames people and he thinks it's ok to be racist).

So you really did not prove anything. If you had a point to prove you should have done it another way.
