I said well, not perfectly You have NOT released anything that is undetectable to date...including your new stuff. I won't say anything further atm.

... and you dont have to, since nothing is undetectable.

that said, i'm pretty well aware of that, but the 2nd version of the tool we're talking about doesn't even try to hide itself. in fact testing _one single byte_ in the game.exe process memory should be enough to detect it.
or are you talking about serverside detection?

but one way or another... why don't you just do it then?
all i always see are words... no actions. kinda a habit around here?!

it's funny anyways how some ppl always try to hurt me or my "honor" by saying "it can be detected", "it sucks" or w/e. even it that WAS true, i really wouldn't give a shit.

Why did you release it in the first place? I understand why you made it, and I myself (as I'm sure does any coder on these boards) see the attraction in solving such a difficult problem, but I fail to understand why you'd release it, without at least crippling its capacity as a functioning cheat in some way...
If he doesn't release it then his ego can't get off to morons like troop feeding it.

It isn't about solving "problems" (your words not mine) as it is getting attention for it.

You don't even play this game (and for good reason, you're awful). The fact you've admitted you don't care about this game says enough and I have no clue why you bother posting here. I was merely trying to bring down his ego (because he HAS to other reason to release it apart from infamy) and explain something to someone who IS playing this game, after a long absence.

Try posting something useful (or atleast a legit rebuttal) or don't post at all.
