Yes its possible with the right custom code.

No its not possible to package it all up into a .mix map (or even a .pkg map), you would need to ship a set of dlls that get installed on the client.

It just so happens that various movie related things (including being able to play movie clips on a textured surface) happen to be on our scripts todo list for after we finish 4.0 (i.e. it will happen if Saberhawk ever has the time to finish the feature and there are no other features that are more important)
