No way some random troll who hadn't read all 16 pages of the renegadeforums thread would know about that claim of being in the military four years later, and know how to find the neoseeker thread which I only discovered through a Google search years ago. Unless he is hardkil or knows hardkil somehow and for some reason wants to take his side despite the existence of real evidence against him, there's no way he'd have that information unless there's someone I managed to piss off here who actually happens to live in the UK (which, to my knowledge, I haven't), or there's someone from the UK or using a UK-based proxy who's trying to pull a fast one on me.

Also, in case he actually figures out how to hit the reply button and whines because I revealed his PM, I'm attaching my response.
