Nor for spelling either it would seem. If you can't be bothered to spell check your posts and use even a semblance of grammar then you can't expect anyone to take you seriously in life. Enjoy your dead end job in a McDonalds restauraunt, that's where people with attitudes like yours usually end up for the rest of their lives, if they make it out of the gutter that is.
DUDE ITS A DAMN FORUM GOD and also i have the right qualifacations to get the job i want

No employer with half a brain would even read a CV presented in the same way as you present yourself here. So what if it's a forum, does that suddenly mean your brain melts and becomes unable to handle the arduous task of forming proper sentences and applying simple grammar rules? People with that attitude are a big part of what is wrong with the world today.

On another note, congratulations on your usage of the caps lock function on your keyboard, however I would suggest you re-read that section of the manual as you seem to have misunderstood how to turn it off after the first letter of your pseudo-sentence.
