You've changed your argument from "There is no one person who should be given the source" to "The community should not be given the source". I do not see how I can continue to debate the point, when you've just changed it.
..?

I haven't changed anything...?

Both those statements are the same thing...

And you have yet to start a debate on the argument... so what you would be continuing is new to me... All you have been saying so far is 'you are wrong, I am right, deal with it.'
