Serials added to the control panel will show up under a different number. I don't know what that number is maybe the serial ID or something.

If you can login to the control panel and your nick is in the nickname list, just use the password you used to enter the control panel to login to renegade.
If you have set auto-login and don't prompt me again, you'll have to turn that off.
If you go to internet play -> WOL there will be a bar on the left. Hover over it and a menu slides out. Click My Information and un-check Auto-Login with this account.
You'll also want to remove the stored password if you checked remember my information.
Goto Start->Run. Type 'regedit' and press enter.
Navigate to:
HKLM->SOFTWARE->Westwood->Renegade->WOL->Logins
and delete the folder that has your nickname.

Now you should be able to re-enter your username and password in Renegade.
