TheGunrunHi this is the first time i read this topic. can any one tell me how the hell it got so big? and why the first few pages are posts made by people who are negative members.

It got big because some people liked the idea, and others just had fun saying they wanted to see it become a reality.

The negative members were my way of spoofing the names of users who existed on the old WS forums but never registered here. So when I imported the old posts, I created any nonexisting logins as guests, which have a negative number.
