With recent events, yes it was low to mention your name in the same phrase as Troops. My bad, there's obviously no comparison nor would there be if you'd said so before the ReneLeak. with him, he has a record of changing the subject to "you suck, 1v1?" anytime someone like - say, goztow - is outwitting him in an argument about something other than "who's the better 1v1 player?" he also has a record of completely fabricating stories of games to try to support whatever deranged tangent he's currently on (see fictional accounts of games with me, wiggles, pirate etc) and when the only person who could be bothered to say "ok troop, let's 1v1" (me), he refused on the grounds that i "had too much of an advantage" (this is after calling everyone else a dodger for a very long time)

Not an outrage, but to bring up our friendly lobbywars and corrupt them by turning them into a serious competition... I just dont think its right. Bragging about your wins doesn't make the other players who lost feel good. You can claim to be #1, just don't drag people through the mud in the process if it'd been simpee or kill who'd won all those lobbywars against me and if he'd said so in this thread, i don't think you would have had a bad word to say about it. if i had said that i was the best clanwars player over the last few years (as several people in this thread have tried to get away with pretending i said) and you replied by showing who actually won the cups, would that be overly mean of you?

we were talking about who's the best player now, which was the question in the first place. according to you we can't consider the games that people actually play now - public servers, commwars. those don't seem to be admissible, in spite of the obviously very gapingly different results between, say, myself and simpee. we're only allowed to talk about lobbywars. but when i talk about those lobbywars (i don't seem to be allowed to put anything else onto the table), suddenly i'm being mean. the game seems rigged to me, whiskey.

Loki wrotel swear to god Spoony has mental defects.

In spite of your appalling personality, loki, let me be absolutely sincere in wishing you a better Christmas this year than you seemed to have last year. I really mean that.
