
Subject: Re: Another Blackhand Ladder question
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 31 Dec 2010 13:39:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My question is why is even St0rm allowed to be on the ladder? The amount of additional features they have creates such a defensive play each game. Maps like Walls just don't go anywhere because a ton of turrets and 120 mines block your way and with 1000 start credits the first few mins comes down to blind rushing.

Not to mention that with rank, you are able to buy weapons and call-in reinforcements. Beacons are laid and backups called making it difficult to disarm unless you had a vehicle to just drive over the shitton of sak/rave/mendoz bots that fell from the sky.

Killing these bots is counted as a actual kill and this reflects on the players' K/D. Makes no sense.

And to add insult to injury, I find the most dishonest pukes ever in any Ren server there as mods. Nasty mods (themselves cheating) with no control of cheats, and the nasty prima donna attitude of the admins in their server forums. This issue of poll gameover is just a start of the list of abuses.

If St0rm was a country, I would nuke it.

Ofcourse, this is not to discount for what it is; a heavily modded server that someone can jump in to have renefun. But for the question of St0rm AOW on the ladder, that's a open-shut case imo.
