

---

Subject: Re: Questions I would like to pose to athiests

Posted by Dover on Sun, 16 Jan 2011 12:11:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Pyr0man1c wrote on Sun, 16 January 2011 01:29 We don't live in an infinite universe?

Debatable, especially in regards to time.

In spatial terms, if we have an "open universe" (Gravity is insufficient to reverse the universe's expansion), then we do live in an infinite universe in the strictest sense. The mathematical definition of infinite is "To increase without bound". We know for a fact that the size of universe is increasing, and unless some force exists to curb its expansion, then "infinite" is the exactly proper term for it.

---