why are they wasting their time with single player? fucking shit heads this game is made of. well, at least they're smart shit heads that can code.

i'm not going to buy UT3 so i'll just have to wait. but yeah it looks good Because it's on the way to making the multiplayer portion stand alone.

Everything that's being made for the single player is going to be put into the multiplayer, even the AI bots. So the choices are to:

A. Wait a year and a half for a multiplayer release

B. Get a single player demo release mid way to keep you busy until the multiplayer patch is ready.

Basically making the single player demo is the BEST idea they can do. They aren't wasting time doing it because all of the content has to be made anyway, so why not give fans something to do while they wait?
