
Subject: Re: Protest the Pope

Posted by Spoony on Sun, 06 Feb 2011 22:38:45 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bmr_71 wrote on Sun, 06 February 2011 12:59Pope's doing what he believes is for the greater good. No shit he doesn't approve of child rape, but for sure he isn't willing to destroy the religion he blindly believes in due to a few bad apples.

when it's an institutionalisation of child rape and a systematic cover-up by the top brass, it's no longer "a few bad apples". or if it is a few bad apples, they're in charge.

he's also pretty dense if he thinks covering it up will be better for his church than throwing out these monsters and turning them over to the law

Quote:Why does it bother you so much anyway?

yeah, who cares about kids getting raped? who cares about the millions of people dying every year from AIDS while the pope lies to them about condoms cos he thinks that's better than admitting the pope a few decades ago was wrong? if you don't care about this sort of thing, boomer, what do you care about? i really would like to know.

Quote:If you all really gave a fuck about people, you'd be doing something for them.

like raising awareness about the situation, encouraging open debate... and supporting a secularist group in the UK which has done a great deal to campaign against this vile old slug of a pope.
National Secular Society

Quote:Really we just want to win internet points on internet discussions.
what are you talking about?

as for the pictures, i don't think i've ever said "religion is holding me back", although it does oppose democracy and freedom of speech in the UK, so it wouldn't be inaccurate if i did.
and i don't set out to annoy christians, but if saying the pope ought to be asked some fucking serious questions in front of a court does annoy christians as a side-effect then it's a price worth paying. i'd annoy everyone on the planet if it prevented one kid being raped by a priest, how about you?
