I agree with reborn, and that was my problem with Counter Strike back in the day as well. COD is basically just fast paced killing and dying. It takes next to no effort for you to kill someone or for someone to kill you and it's extremely repetitive. Not to mention that waiting for respawn time is annoying if you get killed early in the round.

Mind you, I haven't played Black Ops, but I've played a lot of Modern Warfare 1 and 2, and I hear Black Ops is not much different.

Quote:Whats good about Black Ops is you have a point in playing. As you play, you unlock different things and get ranked up. In renegade its all the same, go destroy base and thats it. Every match is same..

A base can be destroyed in a hundred different ways, I'm not sure if you can argue that COD is much more dynamic than Renegade.
