We call that progress, adaptation and self-control. :3

But yeah, DA (perhaps you want me to spell it D.A.?) is Deviant Art.

I've only been for three years.

Yes I [truly] woke up when I saw what the government was doing in 08.

I've always had tendencies in the past but I had to expose myself to the wisdom of Friedman, Hayek and... Well, any well-known libertarian you can think of to fully embrace the concept of liberty and what it brings to the table.

Earlier last year I had more extremist views, but then I realized that extremists don't get anywhere in our society as it is. If we want to push for change it has to be progressively so people can embrace the advantages while keeping the "security" (social safety net, as others call it) they feel they need.

Jimmy Carter can suck my diiiii- uh no, no nevermind that, I just got a mental image and it's not good. Eurhghh.
