Subject: Re: Most anticipated
Posted by EvilWhiteDragon on Wed, 20 Apr 2011 08:44:09 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Goztow wrote on Wed, 20 April 2011 09:49I can guarantee you the anti cheat will be bypassed within the first 2 weeks. There's at least one person that will find it a challenge to do so. What I really anticipate is the update frequency.

I said this before: if Renguard would have been updated within a matter of days each time it had been bypassed, 0x90 would have given up. It's just a matter of the one that can keep up the longest.

The birght thing to do is to have a check on who's using the bypass cheat at each update and add their serial keys to a list availlable to server owners. That way people will think twice before downloading a bypass.

So the most anticipated feature to me is the auto updater.
From what I've heard 0x90 isn't really interested in making cheats anymore, or doesn't have the time. At least that's what he told me just after APB with TT scripts was released.
I expected him to immediately start working on something, but apparently not...