I'll stick with usenet, it's cheaper. Besides that, I'm not going to spend any money on a game which I will probably not play anymore after completing the campaign. you know, I hate being the moralfag in situations like this, but goddamn you are the reason why game companies hate developing for the PC.

By the way, there's tons of legitimately free games- are you that much of an asshole that you feel you deserve other games for free?
