

---

Subject: Re: Bin Laden

Posted by Gohax on Wed, 04 May 2011 20:56:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Burn wrote on Wed, 04 May 2011 13:23 In my opinion, people give the government too much credit.

To say that Osama Bin Laden had ever been working with the US... the implications would be massive... and what possible advantage would the US gain by this?

Saying something like Osama has been dead for years sounds more reasonable. However, it would be a huge risk for Obama to blatantly lie about Bin Laden being killed, imagine what would happen if people found out. He's become President of "the most powerful country in the world" so I'd (hope) he'd be a little smarter than that.

Like I said, I could spill out numerous facts/theories about many things that go on in our(US) government. But, there is quite a bit to gain (power, money, etc) from "working" with him. But, there are more "powerful" things in this world than the American government.

---