
Subject: Re: Bin Laden

Posted by Crimson on Sat, 07 May 2011 08:09:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

halo2pac wrote on Fri, 06 May 2011 17:20Go f yourself.

We are celebrating the death of a mentally insane mass-murderer who justifies killing innocent people, not just americans, under the category of religion.

I had family almost killed in 9/11, 1 got out of the trade center just in time, and the other 2 got out of the buildings near the pentagon as soon as they got wind of the first attacks.

P.S. Osama was the Hitler of the 21st century.

Exactly. The events of 9/11/01 affected all of us Americans in ways that foreigners simply can't understand.

I'm glad you got out of the WTC. I was over in Arizona just watching on the news. My sister was an EMT in upstate New York and she went down with some friends to help dig for survivors that evening. We were pretty scared for her. It seems a lot of people here were either affected or are close to someone who was.

I wish Bin Laden could have been arrested and stood trial for what he did but I also realize it's completely not feasible. First of all, it was possible that there were traps or unknown weapons that could have hurt or killed our men when they raided his hut, and if they did arrest him and bring him to Gitmo or something, then there could have been massive and unknown consequences and risk for Americans and our allies. Hijackings, bombings, etc... to persuade us to release him.

But no, I'm not celebrating in the streets or hosting "Osama is dead" parties, and I know that his death doesn't mean the end of Al Qaeda or radical Islamic terrorism, (or any religion-based terrorism for that matter) but the world is definitely just the slightest bit better with him dead. That much is for sure.
