I was playing this weekend, and was part of a GDI team getting spanked on CITY.

We had an arty with engineer support pounding on side, and stealths on the other side smoking whatever came out.

Difficult to say the least.

3 of us got Mediums, and ran the gauntlet together to take out the arty. The arty driver didn't know who to shoot at, as we were weaving in and out of each other to minimize damage. turns out he had stealth backup as well, but the stealth got in the way, and we suprisingly kept right on trucking, running over the drivers on the way.

We then proceeded on over the bridge uncontested, and drove right into their base, where mass havoc ensued. We went from last to first, as the stealths were too far away to make a difference before the strip died.

Got a weekend story to relate?
