Whilst I was in work today me and my work partner got chatting about girls/women as you do and we asked each other about different races of women and whether we had preferences about if certain races seem more attractive then others and we both came out and said that we find Asian women very sexy. After that discussion died down I asked around and 8 out of 10 guys agreed with me/us...

So my question is why do we (myself included) find Asian women so attractive?

I can pull up (more or less) any picture on google of a Asian women and she will just seem very pretty to me.. I can't say that about white women/black women or any other race.

I hope this doesn't sound racist because thats not my intention im just generally curious as to what makes Asian women attractive to you, if you agree of course.
