
Subject: Re: Asian women

Posted by FlaminGunz on Thu, 01 Sep 2011 23:14:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I dont find asian women any more attractive than whites on the average. Ofc ive seen an attractive asian on many occasions, but i dont have a preference.... i mean that an attractive asian is not more attractive than a good-looking white person..

being in australia, we arent really exposed to alot of black people in everyday life, but ofc with internet/tv its not like i have anything against black people, its literally just i havent been exposed to much of that culture, australia is quite sheltered in that specific aspect.

when i lived in america for 6months last year i was exposed to this alot more (living in DC). I think i tend to find black women less attractive on the average, and i dont know if thats just lack of exposure to their features or i just dont like it i think an asians body shape is also quite attractive on the average. they tend to be small, petite and thin which most like, when i look around uni, rarely do i see a fat asian girl, especially when looking to see fat white girls.

as for a funny something, my work colleagues friend has a korean wife. Who is really nice, but without realising the veru UNpolitical correctness of some things she said, this was a facebook post: "Got haircut today. My boy hairdresser was good. He looked like a gay though. Look forward tio next haircut!"

A gay, male hair dresser What a travesty lol. We all cracked up at work. Shes only lived here for 6months or so and hasnt quite got everything worked out

man this topic sounds racist but its really not
