It's just an invite, I don't appreciate a smart ass remark. I doubt you've been there and know what's there to offer. And mine links to others, so that way you don't have to be on a bunch to idle. You could also talk to your current fav IRC networks and see if they would want to janus. To ease users having to join 5 different networks just to be on one channel, and instead join one and be on all 5 channels! But if we were to go by what you just said, no one should ever start an IRC network.
