A meteor cannot be any larger than around 330 feet (about 100 megaton, which would be just large enough to destroy an area the size of a city like Tokyo), anything larger than this is an asteroid.

I've looked at that second one, and the only thing it said about it's size is that it's like a "Small mountain", now how the hell large is a "small mountain"?

TheGunrunoh and that asteroid heading for earth is small as a mountain so the damage would be smaller than the extinction one that killed the dionosoures.

Alright, back on topic.

Honestly, Who cares about Japan (We'll probaly lose all the good actions shows...but...)

Like 95% of our electronics come from Japan, and alot of the cars come from Japan (or are at least they're Japanese owned). And don't forget all of those short people, we'd lose half of the worlds population of midgets! (j/k)

Well, at least one good thing would come out of it, at least there won't be anymore anime!!!
