Blatent attacks on anything I find worthwhile, or anyone where the flaming has no merit. Debating and flaming are fine, people just have to learn how to do it tactfully.

As well as, like Dante I hate people who are wrong and don't even know it, let alone accept it. As someone once said, When all else fails there's always delusion. (Which is why I engage in few flame wars, but the ones I do participate in are because of the ridiculous "logic" people use)
