Being a mod there, and quitting after this shit, hardly anyone knew about the attacks on Jelly. I didn't until the other day.

The cheating in a comwar I knew about the first day. I'm glad I didn't participate in it because I probably would have been banned right there for telling you guys he was cheating.

St0rm's done, at least in the aspect of a good gaming server. The only people that are really playing there now are the dedicated players to the server. All of the good mods left; didn't want to have anything to do with st0rm after they found out about him attacking servers (I know 2 people that a left because of it).
