Whatever other nonsense you're spewing about me is an utter lie and you're just trying to change the subject.

I offered to host the server/community as an alternative so that the players would still have some place to go. I'm open to other options as well so long as those options mean Wilost0rm is no longer at the helm or in control of it in any way. The other server owners are in agreement that if he steps down, the ban will be lifted.

so your main goal is to get your hands on the server it sounds .
so we swap one person with a history for another .

I think I should take over storm also I would paint the hon pink and fly the england flag over the obby and agt . we could have a little tea shop inside the ref and fish and chips served from the pp
