MDK..I don't know you ...but in all honesty you aren't helping anything by preaching to the choir...I am also sure st0rm is very thankful for your efforts but your attempts aren't.

I do give you props don't get me wrong.

My server's has been crashing constantly since I started hosting them in 2003, but doesn't bother me much as it doesn't take much to walk down a few steps and relaunch it, yea I lost tons of players but its not like I am paying anything to host the game either, unlike a few other servers. Nor will I ever complain about the fact that it gets hit. It happens...even right now for that matter.

Every community is going to have someone out there that doesn't like another one. HELL a lot of them here don't like me, so to his, his own. I'm not here to be liked, only to have fun. Your going to run into this with any game. Same with my BF3 and MW3 servers.

Do I feel that Wilo was wrong in doing what he done or the other people that participated? Of course, but this is just something that I have learned to deal with over the years of trying to support this game, which is becoming hard to do, its become a never ending segment in this community and I thought the soap As the World Turns was canceled... but I will remain dealing with it ...I've seen no other servers in the past being punished this harsh back in the day...idk why we start now, but that is only my opinion and I know that my opinion here doesn't mean shit. I mean hell...look how it was back in Fastc0nn aka Renstation.. Renbattle.. UN.. as well as my servers plus many others...no one helped. Only with a lets retaliate and hit the sumbitches back. Pointless.

I just started playing after a few years of walking away (no it was really due to being banned from UN because of my verbal mouth so the embarrassment entitled me too) and now appears I cannot due to the fact that I can't play in an empty server, I mean hell I may as well just go to my room and continue to play with myself.

It does hit a bit of a nerve in my backside that the St0rm server was booming one day and now I am lucky to see 6 ppl in-game.

As they say shit happens, but it would be NICE to see it populated again, I am not going to ask someone to step away from their own server ...its like asking Dogg to walk away from our marriage because hes too tired from working so much and doesn't give it up enough, just not going to happen.

If st0rm is to close its renegade server I won't lie, I'd be bummed, I'll hate to see it go ...but there is nothing any of us can do about it.
